And when the startling news of the disaster came, and spread over that region, the blackness of despair seemed to brood over and settle on every household..."

CONT'D NEXT PAGE
20. Memorial Day: "Sacred to the Memory of the glorified dead." by Pam Newhouse, Spring 1995- (19th c, Memorial Day postcards & poems; sketch of Sulphur Trestle, Alabama, done by a Confederate cavalryman with Nathan Bedford Forrest; photo of Major Eli Lilly [post-war founder of Eli Lilly and Company Drugs], who commanded Sulphur Trestle during much of the battle there.)

22. "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground" Songs of the Civil War, by Pam Newhouse, Fall 1995- (formula for embalming fluid during the War; photo of Sgt. Aaron V. Waterbury, 17th MI Inf.; [died on the Sultana]; photo of Sultana survivor Albert Norris, 76th OH Inf.; diagrams and plans of the Sultana available; new book on the 5th Tennessee Infantry recently published by descendant Robert K. Cannon; 1903 newspaper article stating that the Sultana was blown up by a malicious Tennessee farmer who placed two pounds of gunpowder in a stick of wood which he then placed in the woodpile that the Sultana took on for fuel, just above Memphis.)

23. "Submerged in Rumor". Rumors surrounding the Sultana, by Gene Eric Salecker, Winter 1996- (photo of Capt. James Cass Mason; Post-War Writings and Lecturing by Sultana Soldiers [post-war broadside with photo of Rev. C. D. Berry telling about a lecture he is giving on Andersonville Prison])

24. Rescued at Fort Pickering, by Gene Eric Salecker, Spring 1996- (detail map of the Mississippi River where the Sultana went down; The Story of the Cherry Jar; An Andersonville Memento)

25. To the Rescue: Rescue Vessels and the Sultana Disaster, by Gene Eric Salecker, Summer 1996- (photo of the U.S.S. Tyler; Whatever happened to...[the fates of those boats that helped rescue Sultana victims]; 1919 newspaper article, "Sultana Survivors Meet "Gather for Forty-Fourth Reunion in Mount Olive, Near Knoxville"; "Sultana"- an old fashioned name for impatients; Recruits sought for a 3rd TN Cav. reenacting group; 1996 Sultana Reunion a Big Success.)

26. I have had hard times but not as hard as Some...., by Pam Newhouse, Fall 1996- (photo of Samuel Poyse11, 95th OH Inf.; photo of Adam Schneider, 183rd OH Inf.; three verses to "The Vacant Chair", Civil War ballad.)

27. To Die in the Icy April Waters: Mississippi River or Atlantic Ocean?, by Gene Eric Salecker, Winter 1997- (Can Anyone Help Solve this Sultana Mystery?; Places to Visit: The Howard Steamboat Museum; More on "sultanas" as Flowers (and Raisins); The Sultana as an Antique Toy; Book Review: American Diaries- Emma Eileen Grove, Mississippi, 1865.)

28. "...life is uncertain," The Story of the 58th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, by Gene Eric Salecker, Spring 1997- (photo of Ribbon worn by survivors at a Fort Wayne Sultana Reunion in 1902; We are living very well now..." [letter written by soldier Alison West [79th Indiana Infantry] to his wife while at parole Camp Fisk, before boarding the Sultana; [poem: "Can We Touch the Rain", by descendant Amy Whiteman; map and directions to the 10th Annual Sultana Reunion in Knoxville.)

29. The Story of Lt. Elbert Squire, 101st Ohio Infantry, by Elbert Squire, Summer 1997- (photo of descendant Bob Warner next to the Sultana monument in Mt. Olive Cemetery, Knoxville [Bob's father, W. C. Warner, 9th IN Cav., was on the Sultana]; Memorial Day Sultana Service in Memphis; Map of Old Cahaba Archaeological Park; Sultana Memorial Tribute Held in Selma, Alabama; Subscribers looking for information.)

30. "The Survivor": The Story of Lt. John H. King, 9th Indiana Cavalry, by Robert Smith, Fall 1997- (photos of John King: entering the service, arriving home after surviving the Sultana disaster, and in his later years; Lobby the State of Indiana for a Sultana Monument!; photo of Pvt. Nathan Thornburgh [died on the Sultana])

31. Paying for Their Misery: The Sultana's Civilian Passengers (Part One), by Gene Eric Salecker, Winter 1998- (list of known civilian passengers; Sultana Soldiers' Son and Daughters [photos of Cy Keeble, Mrs. Malcolm Bloom, and Elsie Hufskaker] [photos of John Simpson, and Jesse Hufskaker; Are you a Descendant of Jacob Edwards?])

32. Paying for Their Misery: The Sultana's Civilian Passengers (Part Two), by Gene Eric Salecker, Spring 1998- (Sultana Soldiers' Stories: The Long Walk Home: A Survivor's Story. Last letter home: P.W. Weaver, 115th Ohio Infantry, and "Thanks to God for Preserving My Life." Memoirs of a Survivor; "The Sultana Disaster" Documentary to Air on TV, May 29; The Sultana on the Internet; The Letters of Frederic Speed; Second Sultana Documentary in the Works- You Can Help; from the Knoxville Journal, April 27, 1031: Called Home- Anniversary of Sultana Sinking Today-None for Reunion.)

33. Memphis Remembers the Sultana, by Pam Newhouse, Summer 1998- (Captured by Rebels: Memoirs of a Sultana Survivor [J.R. Collins, 3rd TN Cav.]; photos: Hunt-Phelon Home in Memphis fused as a hospital for Sultana victims, April 27, 1865]; reenactors who participated in the Sultana Memorial Day Ceremony in Memphis, rings to tie up the boats on the historic wharf in Memphis; Frank Fogelman, descendant of John Fogelman, rescuer of many Sultana victims, and editor Pam Newhouse, standing in front of the Delta Queen steamboat.)

34. Hospitals of the "Good Samaritan City", by Gene Eric Salecker, Fall 1998/Winter 1999- (Coming Soon! A Directory of Sultana Descendants; Sons of Union Veterans Honor Sultana Soldiers; From Seiverville to the Sultana; Sultana books can be ordered Online at amazon.com; Request for a Sultana Indiana State Marker Denied; Two Lone Survivors Meet on Kansas Prairie After Long Years; photo of passengers on the main cabin of a steamboat, c. 1890s)